MORE SNOW AND WIND

The snow storm of last Thursday totaled about 14 inches when it was over Friday. Another fall of fine cold snow started yesterday afternoon soon after dark and with the accompanying wind which began late in the evening has blocked many of the main thoroughfares. The morning train was several hours late in leaving Portland. All busses for the day are cancelled, and no daily papers have arrived.

MONOXIDE GAS CAUSE OF MANY ACCIDENTS, DEATHS

The report of Massachusetts engineers, claiming that 62 per cent of the automobiles on Massachusetts highways contain measurable quantities of poisonous carbon monoxide gas and that 10 per cent contain sufficient quantities to so incapacitate drivers as to increase the probability of serious accidents, should be of interest to Maine car owners. Because of the similarity of conditions, mechanical and atmospheric, under which Maine drivers operate their cars the Massachusetts-Connecticut figures may be taken as a picture of the carbon monoxide hazard on our highways.

The report was submitted to the Governor's Committee on Street and Highway Safety following the use of special apparatus over a two weeks' period and results confirmed similar tests made in Connecticut. Sixteen percent of the cars tested were found to be less than 50 per cent efficient and more than half were operating "below par" to produce excessive quantities of carbon monoxide.

Three or four parts of carbon monoxide in 10,000 parts of air, breathed for an hour, may not only produce headaches, drowsiness and irritability but in all probability will affect driving judgment. Fifteen parts of this toxic gas constitutes a fatal mixture while seven parts in 10,000 parts of air, breathed over two hours is equally dangerous.

The symptoms mentioned were admitted in many instances by drivers of cars showing high concentrations of the gas. In one instance where the driver of a truck had been asphyxiated by carbon monoxide a partly used box of aspirin tablets was found on the seat beside him indicating that he had been troubled with headaches for some time previous to death.

Maine drivers should appreciate the fact that comparatively small doses of this gas create a hazard comparable to bad brakes; with bad brakes a driver faced with an emergency cannot react quickly enough to avoid an accident. Many unaccountable mental lapses while driving can be so explained and many a wreck along our highways could be so attributed were the truth known.

The production of carbon monoxide and its presence in a motor vehicle depend upon an over-rich gasoline mixture, leaks in the combustion system of the vehicle plus cracks or apertures in the floor boards through which gas can seep. Proper maintenance together with an appreciation of the hazard will do most to combat this hazard. The driving public must become CO (carbon monoxide) conscious before they become CO unconscious.

Dr. E. L. Brown was in Norway Wednesday afternoon.

Phillip Wilbur, graduate of Bridgton Academy in 1927, has been elected president of the Massachusetts Alumni Association. This association has held meetings in Boston for 38 years.

LIONS CLUB OBSERVES CHARTER NIGHT

District Secretary Presents Gold Keys—District Governor Makes Stirring Address

The Bethel Lions Club held its Charter Night Meeting at Maple Inn on Monday evening, with 35 Lions present, including two visitors: King Lion, A. Van presiding.

After supper, the courses of which were interspersed with Lion songs, William Niehoff of Waterville, District Secretary, in an appropriate speech, presented gold keys to the following members of the Bethel Club: A. Van, F. B. Merrill, F. E. Hanscom, H. D. Thurston, S. S. Greenleaf, J. P. Butts. These keys are given for exceptional service in building the association.

At the business meeting, thirteen individual members volunteered to place framed copies of "The Lions Moral Code for Youth" in each of thirteen school buildings in Bethel and adjoining towns. One or two specific cases of need were discussed and provided for by the Executive Committee. The Bethel Club is now in a flourishing condition, and is gradually enlarging its field of service. One new member was added at this meeting, increasing the membership to 38.

The meeting closed with a stirring address by Ed. Longley, District Governor, of Waterville.

The next meeting of the Club will be observed as Ladies' Night, and will be held at Bethel Inn, February 4th.

4-H BOYS AND GIRLS ARE ENROLLING EARLY

Over 2300 Maine 4-H boys and girls are off with an early start this year, reports A. L. Deering, Director of the Extension Service. Waldo County leads the list with 532 already enrolled.

Cumberland County reports 200 enrolled, which is practically double its enrollment at the same time last year. Knox-Lincoln shows an enrollment increase of 72 and Piscataquis 69.

Forty-two clubs have increased their enrollment over their final enrollment for last year and nine others have renewed with the same enrollment as last year. Thirteen of the 21 new clubs reported have already sent in programs of work and nearly a hundred other clubs have their programs in.

Maine 4-H Clubs not only start well but finish well with the highest per cent completion of any state.

Gerard S. Williams was a business visitor in South Paris Tuesday.

Maine people are doing more foreign traveling it appears. A comparison of the passports issued or renewed during the past 12 months shows that 131 more were made out to Maine residents than in 1933. The figure, however, did not reach the 1932 total. According to passports issued, 538 Maine citizens went abroad last year, as contrasted with 407 in 1933, and 598 in 1932.

NEWLYWEDS SHOWERED

A group of 25 friends surprised Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Hughes at their apartment in the Hastings Building on Broad Street. Mr. and Mrs. Hughes were recently married and are the proprietors of the Ruth Wanda Studio and Shoppe, including the newly located beauty shop.

Numerous gifts from those attending were opened while the witty and pleasant banter passed back and forth. Cards were enjoyed by all, following which a delightful lunch was served.

Amid laughter and with their best wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Hughes, the gathering broke up at 11:30, all agreeing that they had an enjoyable evening.

FARMINGTON HIGH PLAYS HERE FRIDAY

High Scores Have Earned Them Nickname of "Point-A-Minute Team"—Andover Plays the "B" Squad

Perhaps the finest team to play to local fans will be seen in action Friday when the highly touted team from Farmington displays its wares at the William Bingham Gymnasium. They are spoken of as the "Point-A-Minute team" having won eight or nine straight games with extremely high scores.

The preliminary game should prove a popular attraction when Coach Myers' "B" squad midgets tangle with the big Andover team. If you want to see Sim Keddy and Frankie Littlehale in action along with Eddie Robertson and a number of other underclassmen, be sure to see the preliminary Friday night which starts promptly at 7 o'clock so as to give the Farmington team an earlier start home after the final game.

This double attraction will cost you only 25c.

WORTHY GRAND MATRON INSTALLS O. E. S. OFFICERS

Purity Chapter, No. 102, O. E. S., held a special meeting Tuesday evening for the purpose of installing its officers for the coming year. The Chapter felt especially honored in having Worthy Grand Matron, Gladys Rogers Walker, of the Grand Chapter of Maine, as installing officer.

The ceremony of installation, which was carried out by Mrs. Walker in a very charming manner, had several pleasing features which were new to local Star members, one of which was the vocal selections rendered by Catherine Lyon during the work. This being a semi-public affair members of Purity Chapter invited friends, so that there were about eighty present to enjoy the evening. Refreshments of sandwiches, cake, coffee, olives and nuts were served.

The following officers were installed:

F. A. Redman of Bryant Pond was in town Wednesday.

Mrs. Elizabeth Griffin is confined to her home by illness.

Supt. E. R. Bowdoin and F. A. Brown went to Augusta Wednesday.

District Scout Executive Loring

Chandler of Lewiston was in town

Tuesday to attend a meeting of the local Boys Scout troop committee.

HERE AND THERE IN MAINE

R. E. Russell and James Scribner of Upper Gloucester are recovering from burns received last week when Scribner's gasoline-soaked clothing burst into flames and Russell attempted to extinguish the blaze. The men were warming themselves after filling the gas tank of a truck and did not realize the danger on entering the house.

Federal and local officials inspected four prospective airport sites at Calais Saturday, and it is expected that a choice of location will be made soon.

It is planned to establish a field laboratory for Bowdoin College students at Kent's Island, near the entrance to the Bay of Fundy. The island was obtained from John Sterling Rockefeller for one dollar, with the provision that the college keep a warden there during the mating season, keep the cottage in repair, and pay the taxes. Last year four Bowdoin students spent nine weeks there, noting 200 species of birds and banding 5,000 for the Biological Survey.

Seventy-one snowshoe clubs will participate in a massive torchlight parade which in all will include around 3,000 people and which will take place in Lewiston Saturday night. Accommodations are scarce for the visiting snowshoers as a large delegation of Canadian as well as American sportsmen will be present. Some high lights of the convention will be: snowshoe races for world and American championships, the torchlight parade, crowning of "Miss Maine," hockey games and a 12 mile marathon for the La Presse cup.

Maine women are not interested in politics as they were, for they "dislike the way the game is played." They prefer the clubs and theater to campaign work.

Aroostook wants Maine to advertise her potatoes more and have favored a generous portion of the funds for the Maine Development Commission, to do so. Senator J. Frederic Burns of Houlton tells us the gross income to Maine from both recreational and agricultural sources are about the same, running from $50,000,000 to $70,000,000 annually. A bill providing for the establishment on a four year basis of city, town, county and regional planning boards will be introduced during the current session of the Legislature, the Maine State Planning Board said this week. The State Board, it is stated, "will act in an advisory capacity and cooperate with these various local planning boards when established."

Rep. Timothy F. Donovan of Lewiston will introduce into the Legislature a bill which would permit Sunday hunting. Similar measures have been defeated at virtually every regular session of the Legislature for many years.

Keep Watch for the "Feverish Cold"

If you are "run down" or out of condition, if sluggish bowels have allowed poisonous impurities to accumulate in your system, you are very liable to suffer from "feverish" colds.

Dr. True's Elixir

Laxative Worm Expeller

will ward off or lessen these attacks by getting relief from constipation.

Mrs. E. W. Stephan of 31 Kenberma Road, Dorchester, Mass., writes:—"It was recommended to me by a relative who had used it for years, and I in turn most sincerely recommend it, most of all for children, but also as a laxative for adults."

Successfully used for 81 years.

DISEASE FREE FLOCKS
NAMED BY COLLEGE

Since September, 116,000 Maine hens have been blood tested for the detection of Pullorum Disease and only .047 per cent infection has been found, according to Dr. E. R. Hitchner, head of the Department of Bacteriology in the College of Agriculture, Orono.

A list of the flocks known to be free of the disease is now ready for distribution.

About 15 states are now doing this Pullorum eradication work. Dr. Hitchner states, and this is the lowest percent infection yet reported. With the large number of free flocks in this state it will be possible for everyone to buy chicks from Pullorum free sources this spring.

Pullorum is a disease of young chicks which may cause extremely high mortality during the first three weeks and a lowered egg production at maturity. The disease is transmitted from the infected laying flock to the chick through the egg which may be infected at the time it is laid. The blood test very largely eliminates the carrier birds in an infected flock but it is far safer to buy hatching eggs and chicks from flocks which show no infection. It is such flocks that are included on the list published by the Bacteriology Department of the College of Agriculture.

SOUTH WOODSTOCK

January 20—It has been snowing very gently all day long. Just sitting down in tiny flakes almost like a freezing mist.

Stanley Andrews of Boston spent the week end with his family here at Andrewsville, returning to Boston at midday on the following Sunday.

Mrs. Orin Sprague, who was taken to the Community Hospital in Rumford a week ago is reported to be gaining in general health.

Joseph Timothy Bryant, one of the oldest residents in town, has been poorly all winter.

Ray Coffin was a recent caller at the Davis homestead, where he worked in the season of 1933. Mr. Coffin is in the employ of Al Hendrickson where he has charge of the trucking business, making daily trips to Rumford, Auburn and Lewiston.

Mrs. Florence Benson and Mrs. Edith Herrick are working for the Tebbets at their West Paris manufactory.

Mrs. Bernice Davis visited in West Paris recently, a guest of her uncle, George Buck, and family.

Mrs. Jessie Andrews is just now suffering from a bad attack of neuritis in her arm and shoulder, so bad she is confined to her bed where it is hoped quietness and complete rest will restore her to her usual good health.

No school this week as it is vacation time. We sure miss the children and shall look for their return next Monday, Jan. 28.

Ice cutting seems next to claim the attention of the farmers about town. Some are having the ice cut on Lake Christopher. Others are getting it on Andrews' Mill Pond which has supplied ice for everybody for over a hundred years.

Maurice Benson of Benson Bros. has contracted to keep all the state highway in the town of Paris open for public traffic immediately following each snowstorm or wind blow.

Five tons of yellow birch logs have just passed, huge denizens of the forest, enroute to Mann's clothes pin factory at West Paris.

Tuesday, Jan. 22—Our little storm commencing Sunday morning continued all day Monday in some gently misty snowfall, three or four inches falling in the time, and the sun is shining and the winter landscape beautiful.

OPTIMIST ON MARRIAGE

A man must lead a happy life if he is directed by his wife; he is freed from matrimonial chains.

A man could find no solid peace if he saw a woman's face; if Eve was given for a mate he was in a happy state.

All the female face appear with, darling of a heart sincere; prissy, deceit and pride known in woman to reside.

A tongue is able to unfold worth in women we behold; falsehood that in woman dwells almost imperceptible.

Be the foolish man, I say, will not yield to woman's sway changes from his singleness are of perfect blessedness.

PESSIMIST ON MARRIAGE

A man must lead a happy life if he is freed from matrimonial chains; he is directed by his wife to suffer for his pains.

A man could find no solid peace if Eve was given for a mate; if he saw a woman's face he was in a happy state.

All the female face appear with, darling of a heart sincere; prissy, deceit and pride known in woman to reside.

BETHEL NEEDS

More and Better Sidewalks—winter and summer,
Rural Fire Protection,
Night Watchman—All the Year,
Enforced Traffic Rules,
Australian Ballot System for Town Meetings.

Towns grow in proportion to the money they conserve. In most cases the amount of cash in the banks is a fair indication of the material prosperity of the people in that locality.

Bethel has many individuals who have money and who are now earning money. And in the surrounding country of which Bethel is the merchandising center much is sold for which money comes in.

What happens to this flow of cash? Of course much of it must be sent to larger centers by local merchants in payment for their stock in trade, but a large part of the balance remains here in the form of expenditures for taxes, wages and rents.

Naturally there are commodities which we must buy away from home. Others may be found here and they should be bought here.
When local citizens buy from out of town stores their money leaves town, and the profit on the goods they purchase remains in the hands of those who are in no way interested in local affairs.

The Citizen cannot conscientiously advise anybody to pay exorbitant prices to Bethel merchants.
But the point is—that is not necessary. Our merchants render service they compete fairly with other concerns when all factors are considered. It is the plain duty of all loyal sons and daughters of Bethel to carefully consider this matter.

A few months ago a great passenger liner burned at sea, with a loss of life totalling about 150. Recently a crack Canadian passenger train tore into a siding and telescoped a "holiday special." A score of people died.

Each of these tragic incidents was headlined in newspapers throughout the civilized world.
Millions of people were literally horror-stricken. Public and private bodies immediately started inquiries in an effort to fix the blame and punish those who were guilty.
The whole force of public opinion backed by the authority of the law, determined that everything be done to make certain that there would be no more similar accidents.

Yet those killings, horrible as they were, were infinitesimal compared with a form of accident which the public accepts with complete indifference—the automobile killings. Last year, incompetent, reckless or careless drivers and pedestrians accounted for a killing every 15 minutes, and an injury every 31 seconds. The year showed a record killing in the United States of 36,000 and an injury total of 1,000,000. What would the public have done if the railroads and the steamships had killed 36,000 persons in one year?

Practically every accident, whatever it results in killings or only in scratched fenders is the result of the human element. Ninety percent of automobile drivers are safe, careful and competent. Ten per-

Slumber Song
by Lawrence Hawthorne

I like my sleep! I don't know what Is better than a downy cot;
If I could have my way, I'd stay
In bed until the close of day—
And then I'd gladly slumber on Until another day was gone!
I never yet have counted sheep
To put my weary self to sleep;
No sooner do I hit the hay
Than all my cares have flown away,
And slumber's comforting embrace
Has made my couch a trysting-place
For peaceful rest and restful peace!
And though my snoring may increase,
With accent loud and cadence deep,
Oh, how I do enjoy my sleep!

menaces the lives, health and property of us all.

If one steamship accident or a bad railroad accident, killing comparatively few people, causes revolutionary legislation to protect the public, what should be the safety program resulting from 36,000 automobile killings in one year?

WOMEN PROTESTED TO LEGISLATURE AGAINST LIQUOR 100 YEARS AGO

This petition, signed by 141 Brunswick women, was presented to the Maine Legislature 100 years ago. It was read in the Senate Jan.
24, 1835, and 500 copies were ordered printed.

"To the Senators and Representatives of Maine, in Legislature Assembled:—

"The undersigned, female citizens of Brunswick, respectively represent:—That having, at least, as deep an interest as any others, in the moral condition of society, they conceive themselves entitled to remonstrate and petition against evils, which threaten materially their social happiness.

"We remonstrate against the sale of ardent spirits by comparatively rich men, for the purpose of adding to their riches.

"We remonstrate against this method of making rich men richer, and poor men poorer—of making distressed families more distressed—of making a portion of the human family utterly and hopelessly miserable, debasing their moral natures and thus clouding with despair their temporal and future prospects. Human misery, intense human misery, without a single incidental benefit, is the result of the legalized iniquity, against which we remonstrate. We appeal to our constitutional guardians to defend us against this outrage. We appeal to the moral courage of the good to come to our rescue against the mercenary and hard hearted abettors of intemperance.

"We represent to your honorable body, that in consequence of the practice, against which we remonstrate, there is in our town and vicinity a large class of our sex, who, with their infant families, are enduring physical and moral distress at which the heart of sympathy recoils; that many of those, who are more than widowed by this worse than cholera or death, would be able to support themselves were they relieved from the rapacity and injustice of intemperate husbands.
Your petitioners can also from observation and good evidence, assert that many of such husbands would probably become useful and res-the sale of ardent spirits in their immediate neighborhood. We pray your honors to afford them such protections.

"Disclaiming all intentions of dictating to our civil fathers, we would respectfully inquire, if the pernicious traffic in ardent spirits cannot be prohibited, or confined within such limits, if any, as medical purposes may require—whether some legislative provision cannot be made in favor of the wives of the habitually intemperate, by which the wives may be entitled to their earnings and legally protected against the society and intrusions of their husbands, during such time and subject to such limitations as your wisdom may provide.

"We would further state that we have been ready, according to our ability, to aid the suffering victims of this vice; but our sympathizers have been paralyzed by the consideration that we should be indirectly administering to the vicious appetite, by relieving the intemperate from the care of their families and enabling them to spend all their wages in rum. We are compelled to state that in this course of remark, we reason, not from theory, but from fact.

"We further represent, as a peculiar and aggravated injustice to our sex, that, in consequence of this nefarious traffic, the wives of the intemperate are, in frequent instances, driven by the force of mere despair to the same utterly destructive practice of intemperance; brutalizing themselves and entailing on society a race of vicious and brutified children.

"In conclusion, we pray your honors, that however you may think fit to treat our suggestions, you would devise ways and means to cripple and destroy the trade in alcoholic liquors—a trade which, however its immorality may once have been mitigated as a sin of ignorance, must now be regarded as highly criminal in all parties to it; a trade, hurtful to society, and peculiarly hostile to free institutions, by sapping the foundations of virtue and piety on which they are built—a trade, detestable to all good men, and especially to a holy God."

ECONOMIC HIGHLIGHTS

Happenings That Affect the Dinner Falls, Dividend Checks and Tax Bills of Every Individual—National and International Problems Inseparable from Local Welfare.

Ask a dozen economists this question: "How great a debt can the federal credit stand?" The chances are that you will get a dozen different and opposed answers.

Not so many years ago financial authorities fearfully forecast that the national debt would soon reach the $10,000,000,000 mark, said this would mean the beginning of a collapse in the nation's credit. Today the debt has passed $30,000,000,000 and some authorities believe that it will reach $50,000,000,000 before many more years have passed. Yet little fear is now expressed as to solvency of our government. Treasury officials say that $50,000,000-00 would not be an excessive debt for so rich a country.

The President's budget message was predicated upon the theory that it will be possible to achieve a smaller deficit in the 1935 fiscal year than in the 1935. Federal bookkeeping today is done under a sort of dual system. One set of books takes care of the regular budget. Another involves emergency expenditures which, in the view of the Administration, are much like war expenses and so cannot be carried on the books as normal spending. This system has led to considerable confusion of the public which has been told, on the one hand, that the government is cutting costs, while on the other hand, it sees the deficit and taxes constantly rising.

Estimated receipts for the 1936 fiscal year regular budget total $3,422,000,000—an advance of 299-000,000 over 1935. Estimated expenses are $3,302,000,000, a rise of 544,000,000. This leaves an encouraging estimated surplus, so far as regular income and spending is concerned, of $120,000,000.

The next step, however, concerns the emergency budget. The Administration plans to spend some $4-582,000,000 for extraordinary purposes, as opposed to an income of $570,000,000 which will come from various AAA activities. This leaves a deficit of 4,012,000,000.

As a result, total expenditures for "regular" and "extraordinary" budgets will be $7,884,000,000, a drop of $124,000,000 from 1935. Total receipts from all sources will be $3,992,000,000, a rise of $280,000, 000 from the preceding fiscal year.
The total net deficit will thus be $3,892,000,000 $404,000,000 less than the 1935 deficit) which must be added to the soaring national debt, bringing it close to the $35,000,000-000 mark.

There is the budget situation in a nut shell. Great as the deficit is, the President and many financial experts say it is "well within the nation's resources." It remains a fact, however, that the national debt must eventually be paid—and that in the meantime hundreds of millions a year must be spent for interest. All of this money has to be raised by taxation, and the greater the debt, the greater the burden on industry—and the less money it has for other purposes.
Nineteen-thirty-six interest expenditures, for example, will come to the neat sum of $875,000,000, a jump of 40,000,000 over the 1935 fiscal term.

To get away from the economic aspects of the budget, one of its most interesting phases is the proposed expenditure of $900,000,000 for national defense. If Congress authorizes this expenditure, as it probably will, 1936 will witness the greatest "peace-time war expenses" in the nation's history.
The President announced these figures without comment—it is obvious, however, that they are principally made necessary by Japan's abrogation of the naval treat-years from now, when the naval craft on a grand scale the United States must with her. At the present time naval strength is well below treaty limit. This tonnage will be made up, for the most within the next two years.

East Bethel School News

The following story was written by Donald Holt:

OUR CLUB

During vacation last March, Albert, Chester, Dean, Robert and I decided to organize a club. After great deliberation we decided to call ourselves the "Little Scorpions."

We built our club house from some boards father had discarded from the ice house. The entrance was sort of a Chinese affair, that is, an underground tunnel.

All clubs have initiations, so when we decided to take in new members we were well prepared to do so.

Clarence, who was our victim, was the son of a rich family who had just moved into town, and he was what we boys term a "sissy." So no wonder we were eager for him to join the club.

He came up one day when we were having a meeting, and tried to get into the club house, but had to give it up as a bad job. Chester, who was the first to see him, said, "Let's give him the scare of his life." At this we all agreed.

Albert told him to stand still with his eyes shut if he wanted to join our club. He did. As he was about two feet from the end of the tunnel Chester and I walked up behind him, blindfolded him, and tied his wrists together. Then we took an old tree that we had just cut and propped it up so that it would stand. We took a piece of rope and tied Clarence to the limb of the tree. He was frightened and began to scream. Albert took a saw and went up the tree and began to saw at a limb opposite the one Clarence was on. He cried out and screamed in fear. Robert called "When you get it half way off his weight ought to break it."

Our fun did not last long as Clarence's mother happened to see us. She came across the field with a stick in her hand. We all ran to the club house and watched through a crack in the wall. She got Clarence down, and did she give him a trimming for not getting in the wood she had told him to get.

We laughed and laughed, but the next day when we were going to our club we met Clarence on the street and made him a member of "Our Club." He told us he thought we had some good trick to play on a city guy. We liked him and he proved to be a good member, not a sissy as we first thought.

The following story was written by Chester Harrington:

ROARING LIONS

One day as I was carrying a message from one French camp in Lower Sudan, to another a little farther north, I met with some lions. My camel was walking along lazily, when I heard a roaring noise. I looked up and saw two lions heading my way.

I drew my musket and shot the nearest one but before I had time to reload the lioness was upon me. She began biting and scratching at my camel's side. I drew my knife and tried to drive it between the animal's eyes. She scratched and bit at my leg but finally I managed to cut the monster's throat.

My poor camel stood shivering with fear, his legs gave way under him and he sank to the ground dead. I was not badly hurt and reached camp a short time later with my message.

A NEW DEAL IN TABLE FLOUR

By Dr. John M. Evvard
Formerly chief in nutrition, Iowa State Experimental Station

Soybean flour, milled from selected soybean seed, is coming into wider use each succeeding year. This flour made from soybeans is used in the development of new baking blends, supplementing the wheat flour. Soya flour provides a desirable constituent for certain candies, and is also used as a sausage building ingredient in so called "cereal sausage." Soybean flour is to be found in some excellent kinds of meat loaves, certain potted meat formulas, special frankfurters, appropriate bolognas, particular Braunsweiger smoked liver type sausage, and in many other food products marketed today.

Widespread "national" appreciation of the soybean and products derived from it, as highly acceptable human food is not new in the world's history. In China, for instance, the soybean and its food derivatives are more universally used than the products from any other plant, excepting possibly the tea plants which provide the leaves for the steeping of the favorite oriental table and family beverage. Since the Chinese people consume very little meat, mostly pork and poultry, and have practically no cow's milk, the highly nutritious and efficient balancing proteins of the soybean are efficiently utilized for human food.

Soybean flour is exceptionally rich in high quality proteins, the kind that balance up the wheat, other cereals, corn and potatoes in the average diet. A pound of soybean flour costing only a few cents supplies over twice as much nutritionally acceptable protein as a similar weight of lean round beef steak. Whereas smoked lean ham carries about 20% protein, soybean flour provides approximately 45%. Since wheat flour of quality grade contains only from 10 to 13% protein it would take practically four pounds of this cereal flour to provide as much of the highly essential protein as is carried in a single pound of soybean flour.

In North China, soybeans are used in the diet as a balancer for the large amount of wheat consumed. However, in southern China where rice is so abundantly grown and consumed, the soybean is likewise used as a nutritionally efficient dietary adjunct. The aggressive Japanese are staunch advocates of the high value of the soybean for human nutrition.

In the years before us, the tasty flour and palatable oil yielded by the soybean are going to be eaten in vastly increased quantity by the people of the Western Hemisphere—and particularly by the children, old and young, of Uncle Sam.

"Truth" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon to be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, January 27. Among the citations from the Bible is the following: "Show me thy ways, O Lord; teach me thy paths. Lead me in thy truth, and teach me: for thou art the God of my salvation; on thee do I wait all the day" (Ps. 25: 4, 5).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, one of which reads: "Through spiritual sense only, man comprehends and loves Deity. The various contradictions of the Science of Mind by the material senses do not change the unseen Truth, which remains forever intact." (p. 481).

Lost People of Guinea Plateau to Stay Nude

London.—The newly discovered race on the New Guinea plateau is to remain nudist.

That is as far as the missionaries are concerned, for an expedition bearing civilization to a newly discovered race of people living in complete isolation from the rest of the world on a plateau in New Guinea, is excluding clothes from among its gifts.

Rev. V. H. Sherwin of Gosport, who has left home to take religious and medical comforts to the 200,000 inhabitants of the new territory, expressed himself strongly on the point.

"One of our policies is to fight against clothing natives. The big mistake western civilization has made is to put natives into clothes."

"These people ordinarily have a high standard of morality, walking about often naked, and are not possessed by the sexual exaggerations that we have in civilization."

"Moreover, in humid heat the more the body is exposed the better from the medical point of view."

FORD PRESENTS ANOTHER ADVANCE IN TRUCK ENGINEERING

THE important fact to remember about the new Ford V-8

Truck for 1935 is not merely that it gives you new money-saving features—but that these features have been added to a truck whose economy, performance, stamina have already been proved.

For 1935, Ford gives you an entirely new development—Forward Load Distribution. This makes possible more uniform tire and brake wear—better brake action—improved operation and wear throughout the truck. In addition, with more space between the cab and rear axle, the 1935 Ford V-8 permits acute angle turns with full-width semi-trailers.

No matter how efficiently you are now doing your hauling, these and the other features of the 1935 Ford V-8 are important advantages to consider. They are matched by no other truck in America today, regardless of price.

Test this new Ford V-8 Truck yourself. Check its power and pick-up—the performance of an eight, with the economy of a four. Your nearest Ford dealer will let you do this... on your own job, under your own load, with your own driver.
